How does the i-MULA 50 subsidy work?

The i-MULA 50 offers a one-time RM50 subsidy for each eligible policy purchased, provided it meets the required criteria.

Can policies under the i-MULA 50 be purchased for my dependents?

Yes, policies under the i-MULA 50 can be purchased for your dependents. Each dependent is entitled to purchase one life insurance policy and receive the RM50 subsidy.

To receive the RM50 subsidy for each policy, the policyholder must pay the initial premium, (with a minimum of RM25).

Is there an age limit?

Different products have different terms and conditions. For more information, please visit LIAM's website (www.liam.org.my) or participating companies' website.

What is the required premium amount to be eligible for i-MULA 50?

Annual premiums for products must fall within the range of RM75 to RM600. Policyholder is required to make an initial premium payment (minimum of RM25) to receive the RM50 subsidy. This ensures that the policyholder fully understands the insurance plan they plan to purchase.

Can existing insurance plans receive this subsidy?

Only new policies purchased under the i-MULA 50 are eligible for the RM50 subsidy. Existing insurance plans do not qualify for this subsidy.
