Key indices in the U.S. resumed their monthly gains, where the Dow Jones grew 2.3% M/M, the S&P 500 up by 4.8% M/M, and the Nasdaq rose 6.9% M/M. These were largely supported by a combination of: (i) improved PMI data, driven by the manufacturing and services components, and (ii) better-than-expected first quarter earnings results across several sectors.
